

Edmund Friedman Young Engineer Award for Professional Achievement Application

Official Rules:

To recognize the professional contributions of younger members of the Society, Edmund Friedman, Past President, ASCE, contributed funds to establish the Edmund Friedman Young Engineer Award for Professional Achievement. The Award was officially instituted by action of the Executive Committee of the ASCE Board of Direction in October 1972.

- I. The name of the award is the Edmund Friedman Young Engineer Award for Professional Achievement.
- II. This recognition may be awarded annually to members of the American Society of Civil Engineers who are 35 years of age or younger on February 1 in the year of the award and who are judged to have attained significant professional achievement, by the degree to which the candidates have shown:
 - Service to the advancement of the profession;
 - Evidence of technical competence, high character and integrity;
 - Leadership in the development of younger member attitudes toward the profession;
 - Contributions to public service outside of their professional career;
 - Other evidence of merit, which in the judgment of the award committee shall have advanced the Society's objectives.
- III. The award shall be made every year when, in the judgment of the award committee, suitable candidates are available. No more than five recipients will be named in any year, and no recipient may receive the award more than once.
- IV. An individual, or group of individuals, may submit nominations, for these awards. They are encouraged to submit the nominations through the Sections. Nominations may also originate in the award committee. These nominations shall be submitted to youngermember@asce.org by 5 PM EST on February 1 of each year for referral to the Committee on Younger Members (CYM). CYM will then submit its recommendations, if any, to the ASCE Executive Committee for final action.
- V. Meritorious nominees not selected in a given year, may be held over at the discretion of the award committee for consideration the following year, provided the nominee is still eligible under Rules II and III.
- VI. Deceased persons are not eligible for nomination for the award, although an award can be made posthumously to a nominee whose petition had reached the award committee during their lifetime.

VII. The award shall consist of a certificate inscribed with the name of the recipient and the circumstances of the award, to be presented at the next ASCE Annual Convention.

VIII. Active members of CYM shall not be eligible for the award.
